Aim:

This study session aims to provide an overview of local anaesthetic and the tools available to manage peri-surgical pain.

Objectives:

At the end of this study session, and after a period of reflection and self-directed study, delegates should be able to:

- To understand the pharmacology of local anaesthetics and simple analgesics
- To consider how local anaesthetic may be utilised, including as part of multimodal analgesia to optimise pain management for patients
- To be aware those situations where certain local anaesthetics may be contraindicated, and the alternatives available
- To review acute pain management in clinical practice, including supportive holistic methods
- To reflect upon local anaesthetic resistance in clinical practice.

GDC Development Outcomes: This CPD course meets the criteria for the GDC's development outcome(s): A, B and C.

Speakers' Profiles

Dr Jennifer Ferry

Consultant Anaesthetist, Aneurin Bevan UHB, South Wales

Dr Ferry is a Consultant Anaesthetist at ABUHB, where she is clinical lead for acute pain. Her other areas of interest include regional anaesthesia, blunt chest wall trauma and perioperative management of chronic pain patients. She is an elected board member of Regional Anaesthesia UK, where she is lead for Equity, Diversity and Inclusivity.

Dr Linda Chan

Senior Anaesthetic Registrar, Aneurin Bevan UHB, South Wales

Dr Chan is an anaesthetic registrar in the Wales deanery. After graduating from the University of Birmingham she completed her foundation training in Bournemouth. She then spent time working in Queensland Australia before returning to the UK to start anaesthetic training. She has an interest in paediatric anaesthesia and medical education.

CPD Survey Link and CPD Certificate:

Please note, to allow you to receive the CPD Survey link and ultimately the CPD certificate, you are required to attend the webinar for the whole duration and not just part of the session. Your log in and log off times are part of the Zoom report we download from the system to enable us to administer the links. The responsibility lies with the attendee to ensure their device is suitable for Zoom webinars.

If, however, you cannot attend the whole session, in line with one of the Royal College of Surgeons in the UK and in our effort to be reasonable, we will only issue the Survey link and CPD certificate to Zoom attendees who attended 75% or more of the session.

Closing date for online booking on Eventbrite: by 6.45pm on Monday 18 November 2024.
